Pessimists and optimists could have gotten some argument out of the Rockets' 117 victory over San Diego Tuesday night in The Summit.

For the pessimists, the could be viewed as a small defeat since it put Houston two games ahead of the Clippers in the standings. If the Rockets were to finish behind San Diego, making them the worst team in the Western Conference, it would ensure them of having one of the top two picks in the college draft.

The optimists, on the other

on A-A list

NEW YORK (AP)—Michael Jordan and Sam Perkins, who led North Carolina to the No. 1 ranking and an unbeaten record in the Atlantic Coast Conference regular season, today were named to the Associated Press first team All-American college basketball squad.

Three of the nation's premier big men — 7-footers Patrick Ewing of Georgetown and Akeem Olatunji of Houston, and 6-9 Wayman Tisdale — complete the first team.

Jordan and Tisdale were unanimous choices in the voting by a 10-member panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Ten points were given for a first team selection, five for the second team and three for the third team.

Jordan, Ewing and Tisdale are repeaters from last year's team. It marks the fourth time two players from the same team were chosen to the AP first team. Alex Groza and Ralph Beard of Kentucky (1979), Bill Walton and Keith Wilkes of UCLA (1974), and Scott May and Kent Benson of Indiana (1970), were
